

PRODUCT, MARKET & BUSINESS MODEL

Built for India's State-Level Government Exam Aspirants

A full walkthrough of what RajyaRank does end-to-end, the market gap it's built to close, and how it actually makes money — illustrated with the real, running product, not mockups.

1 Executive Summary

RajyaRank is a bilingual (Hindi-first, English-throughout) exam-preparation platform built around one question: "what should I study today?" — not a video library a student has to make sense of alone. It combines a structured student learning experience (daily plan, courses, tests, revision, doubts) with a real content governance pipeline (maker/checker review, versioning) and a genuine two-sided business: students pay directly, and coaching institutions run their own branded operation on top of the same platform, paying RajyaRank both a subscription licence and a share of what they sell.

How to read this document: Sections 2–4 make the market and positioning case; Section 5 explains how RajyaRank earns revenue; Sections 6–9 walk the actual product end-to-end with real screenshots, organised the way a student, an academic team, and an institution partner each experience it.

WHY THIS MARKET, WHY NOW

2 The Market Opportunity

Government-job exam preparation is one of India's largest and fastest-growing education categories — and it is disproportionately underserved once you leave the handful of national exams every big platform already targets.

Every one of Bihar and Jharkhand's own state exams — BPSC, JSSC, and the many exam bodies beneath them — has a real, large, and growing aspirant base. The state-exam layer of this market is exactly where the national platforms are weakest, and exactly where RajyaRank starts.

Market figures: IMARC Group (India Online Education Market, 2025–2034); India EdTech CAGR per industry analyst estimates; Bihar/Jharkhand aspirant figures from coaching-industry press coverage of BPSC Prelims 2024. Figures are directional market context, not RajyaRank's own metrics.

WHAT'S ACTUALLY BROKEN

3 The Problem We're Solving

Today, a BPSC or JSSC aspirant is stuck choosing between two bad options:

National video platforms

Built for SSC, Banking, UPSC and JEE/NEET at national scale. State PSC exams are an afterthought, if covered at all. The product is a video-and-test library — there's no guided daily plan, and everything is sold as an ever-renewing subscription regardless of exam-cycle timing.

Local coaching institutes

Deep, real subject expertise on the exact exam that matters (faculty who have taught BPSC/JSSC for years) — but almost no real technology. Content typically moves through WhatsApp groups, unlisted YouTube links and loose PDFs: no structured progress tracking, no protected/paid content, no analytics, no way to run a real online batch at scale.

The gap in the middle is a platform that has the state-exam depth of a local institute and the technology of a national platform — and, critically, lets the local institute itself use that technology under its own brand, instead of losing its students to a generic app.

POSITIONING

4 How RajyaRank Is Different

Dimension	National video platforms	Local coaching (offline/informal)	RajyaRank
State-exam depth (BPSC, JSSC, etc.)	Partial	Yes	Yes
Guided daily study plan (not just a library)	No	No	Yes
Adaptive weak-topic drills from real test data	Partial	No	Yes
True bilingual product (not translated labels)	Partial	Yes (spoken)	Yes
Protected content (signed URLs, watermark)	Yes	No — open links	Yes
Content maker/checker quality workflow	Partial	No	Yes
Institute can run its own branded platform	No	No tech to run it on	Yes
Exam-cycle pricing (vs. endless subscription)	Partial	Yes (ad hoc)	Yes

The wedge: RajyaRank doesn't have to win students away from local institutes — it can sell to them, becoming the technology layer under a trusted local brand, while also acquiring students directly for the exams and states it serves.

5 Business Model — Three Revenue Lines

1 · Direct-to-student

Students buy exam-cycle course access or test series directly, via Razorpay. Free, trial, scholarship, coupon and subscription access types all coexist on the same catalogue.

2 · Institution licence (SaaS)

Coaching institutions pay RajyaRank a recurring platform subscription (monthly/annual) to run their own staff, students, courses and content on the platform — billed and invoiced automatically.

3 · Marketplace commission

Institutions sell their own courses to their own students through RajyaRank. Every sale is split automatically — payment-gateway cost, RajyaRank's commission, and a refund reserve — before the institution is paid out, via a KYC-verified linked payout account.

Line 3 is the one that scales differently from a typical EdTech subscription business: RajyaRank earns a small piece of every institution's own course sales, on top of the licence fee — a real take-rate marketplace, not just a seat-based SaaS tool.

6 Get a real result, not just a score
Subject-wise breakdown, rank and percentile

Result view — pass/fail against the real cut-off, accuracy, rank, and a subject-performance breakdown that feeds straight back into the study plan's weak-topic drills.

7 Close the loop

Revision centre surfaces exactly what's weak

Revision centre — bookmarks, in-progress lessons and a focus-areas panel computed directly from real test performance, not a guess.

The through-line: every screen above feeds the next — a test result changes the study plan, the study plan changes what shows on the dashboard tomorrow. That loop is the actual product, not any one screen in isolation.

7 How Content Actually Gets Made

Nothing a student sees reaches them without going through a real editorial pipeline — built so a fast-growing content team (or a coaching institute's own faculty) can produce at scale without quality collapsing.

The screenshot shows the 'Course Studio' interface in the RajyaRank admin panel. The browser address bar displays 'admin.rajyarank.in/courses/studio'. The left sidebar contains navigation links: Dashboard, Exams & States, Courses (highlighted), Manage Content, Question Bank, and Mock Tests. The main header shows 'Course Studio' and a user profile for 'Amit Verma, Content Admin'. Below the header is a progress bar with steps: 2. Basics (active), 4. Learning design, 5. Curriculum, 6. Content, 7. Pricing, and 8. Review. A 'Save & Exit' button is on the right. The form fields include: 'Code' (BPSC_PT_FULL), a warning 'State and exam cannot be changed after creation.', 'Title (Hindi)' (बीपीएससी प्रारंभिक — संपूर्ण कोर्स), 'Title (English)' (BPSC Prelims — Complete Course), 'Description (Hindi, optional)' (सिलेबस, नोट्स, टेस्ट और डेली प्लान के साथ पूरी तैयारी), and 'Description (English, optional)' (Full preparation with syllabus, notes, tests and a daily plan.). At the bottom are 'Cancel' and 'Next' buttons.

Course Studio — a guided, autosaving, step-by-step course builder (template → basics → audience → learning design → curriculum → content → pricing → review).

9 Platform Governance & Security

Manage Payments — every order across the whole platform, filterable by institution, in one place.

Roles & Permissions — the exact capability matrix every role is held to, read-only and auditable.

- ✓ Server-side authorization, always. Every protected action is re-checked on the backend against role, scope and content status — never just a hidden UI button.
- ✓ Assignment-scoped access. A staff member's reach depends on role and what they're actually assigned to (state/exam/course/subject/batch), not role-name alone.
- ✓ Verified payments, always. Cryptographically verified order signatures and webhooks, idempotent by design — a payment can never be accepted unverified or double-counted.
- ✓ Full audit trail. Every sensitive action is written to an append-only log, reviewable by Super Admin.

The platform is built. The market is waiting.

Every screen in this document is the live product — not a mockup, not a roadmap slide. The next step is a guided, hands-on walkthrough with real course content, on the platform as it stands today.
